

Earthview Giant Globe at ARMS

Athol Royalston Middle School students were treated to a visit by the Earthview inflatable globe from Bridgewater State University and the Massachusetts Geography Alliance. This globe is one of two in the world (and the other one is not available for viewing). Students went inside this hand-painted work of art featuring continents, oceans, tectonic plates, and major landforms on our planet to discuss water resource issues, major landforms, and the Ring of Fire. The visit of the Earthview was the kickoff to the events leading to the middle school's multicultural festival. (Athol Daily News)
